

06/19/2026:

NUMINUM BERRY TRANCE

Sleep paralysis
opened the lucid gate.

I entered the Storyverse carrying a heavy thought.

Maybe the waking world
did not care what I created.

Then comfort
walked toward me.

She called the
fruit Num Num
Berries.

They could make me feel anything I wanted.

I believed her.

Second Brain
shouted through the sweetness.

Wake up.

The mask
fell away.

Lucid Lightning struck the soul hunger.

The hag fell,
but the berries
were not finished.

A clinic replaced the battlefield.

Doctor Odin
felt familiar.

I trusted him
more than I
trusted myself.

The loop started
to show its seams.

Odin was not as wise
as the trance insisted.

My perceptions
had been edited.

His help
was a weapon.

Odin was not my doctor.

He was the berry
hallucination
wearing trust.

I fought
the lie.

Then I ran until
the poison weakened.

The trance
finally broke.

The dream had been
a wild ride.

Negativity had found roots in
my sleep.

Next time, I would enter with a better
mindset.

Second Brain was
there when I needed
help.