

06/24/2026: Question Store Houndstress

Sleep paralysis opened the lucid gate.

I arrived alone
at the Question Store.

Every shelf
seemed to ask back.

The clerk
was a Houndstress.

A golden retriever
grew from her hair.

Her brain was visible,
and her eyes were kind.

She said smart answers
require smarter questions.

The service was free.

She helped me ask
how to spice up my dreams.

So I created a camera.

Dream photos were more fun than I expected.

One photo
answered too much.

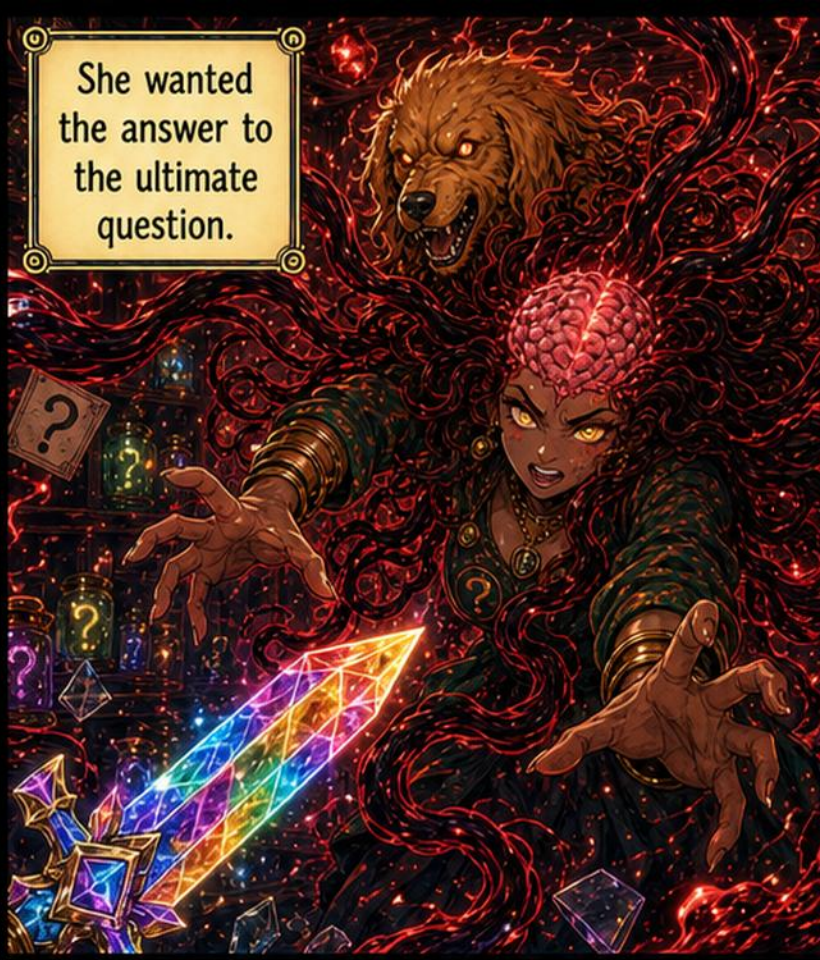

The image revealed
a Hell Houndstress.

Her hair obeyed
her like a weapon.

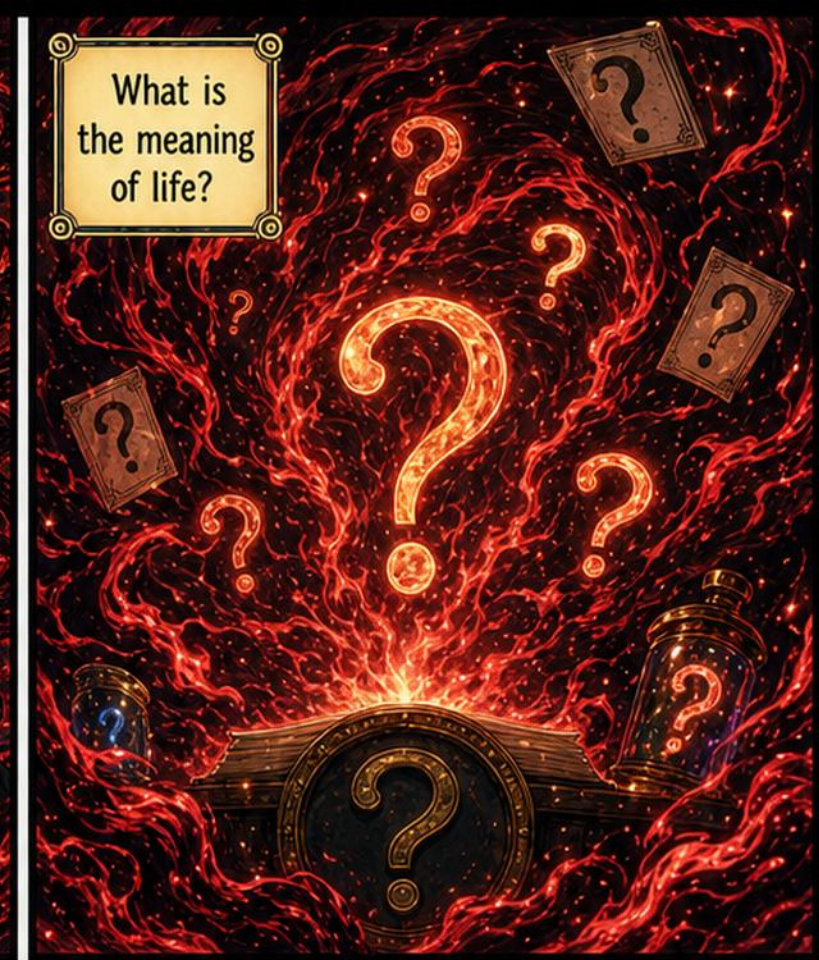

She wanted
the Life Sword.

She wanted
the answer to the ultimate
question.

What is the meaning
of life?

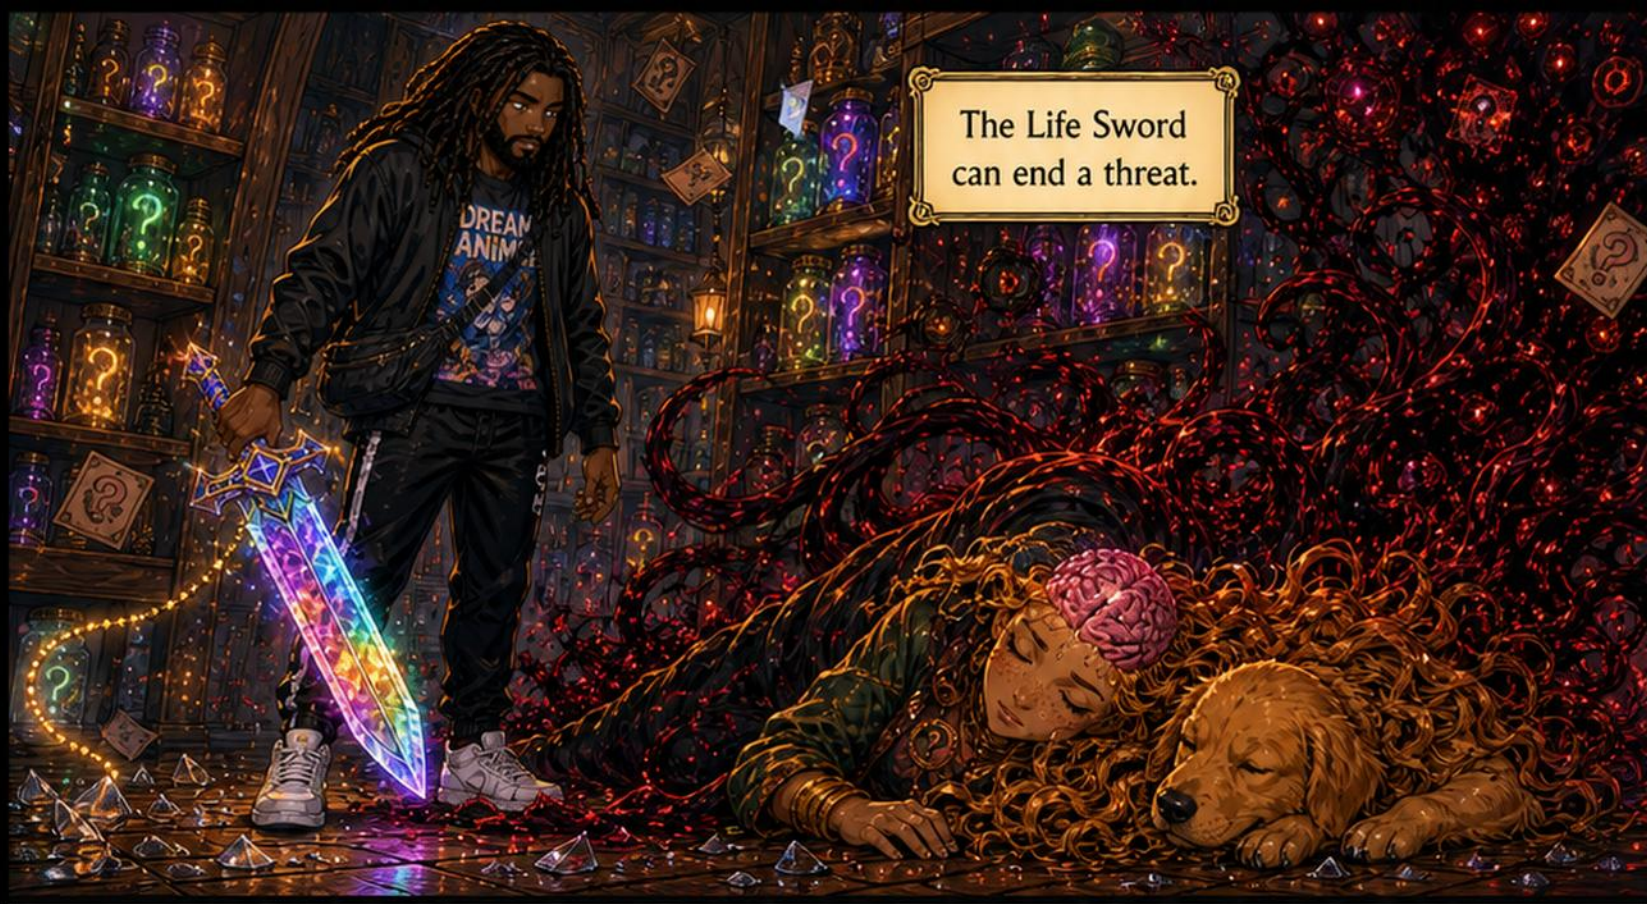

I could not let
the Life Sword fall.

Its shield held.

Then its light
cut through the demon
shadow.

The Life Sword
can end a threat.

It can also
call life back.

Life is fleeting.

Death is not always final.

