

05/23/2026:
MALLWORLD
SABOTAGE

Sleep paralysis opened the door.

I entered the Storyverse with a plan.

Tonight,
I would find Mall World.

But someone reached me first.

She was unfamiliar.

Spiky silver hair.
Green eyes. No nose.

Her armor flashed red and blue.

She dragged me
into the mountains.

She said my routines defined me.

She said she existed to disrupt me.

I refused to give her that victory.

The mall
was still there.

I chose the path back.

Step by step,
I took the dream
with me.

Then Lucid Light
opened the way.

I made it
inside Mall World.

Endless halls.
Bright stores.
Familiar unreality.

Then the stench hit me.

My focus collapsed.

When awareness returned, I was somewhere else.

Heroes shimmered around me.

A voice said I could remember only one.

So I chose life.

The plant hero
became my anchor.

I held that memory tight.

Mall World had kept its secrets.

Next time, I will bring a defender.

