

06/30/2026:

MASTER ROD

TROLL MOUNTAIN

Sleep paralysis
opened the lucid gate.

I arrived alone in
a kinder-looking world.

Rivers climbed waterfalls in reverse.

The trolls saw
the weight I carried.

I feared my waking world was already doomed.

Then The Master
answered with lightning.

The Master Rod
waited on the peak.

Seven climbers
led the way.

One climber
wanted the staff
for himself.

Purple lightning
split the path.

I answered
with Lucid Light.

Elemental
cores woke inside my bike.

The mountain
became a race.

I REACHED THE PEAK FIRST.

THE MASTER ROD
ANSWERED MY HAND.

THE SPEEDSTER
ARRIVED FURIOUS.

THEN HUNGER
FELL FROM SPACE.

The trolls thought he
wanted the staff.

I knew what
he really wanted.

He drank from
the elemental cores.

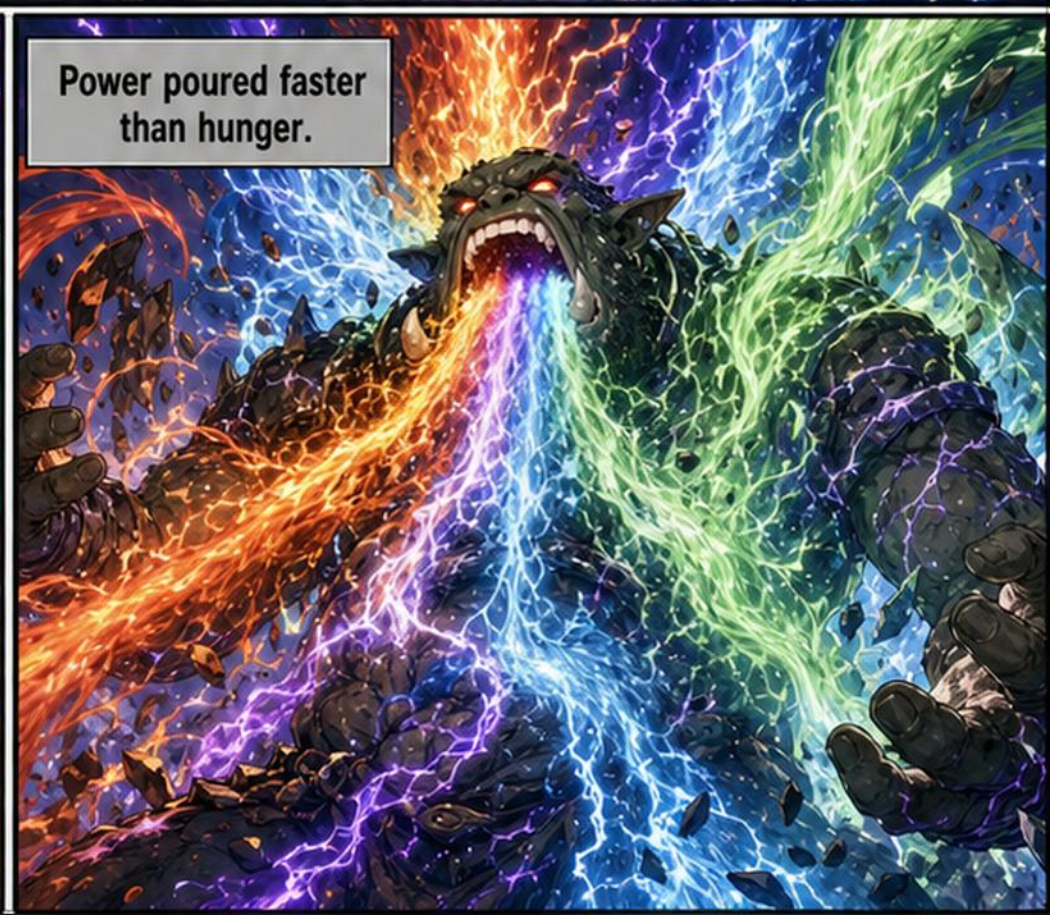

So I struck the
bike with lightning.

The cores
burst open.

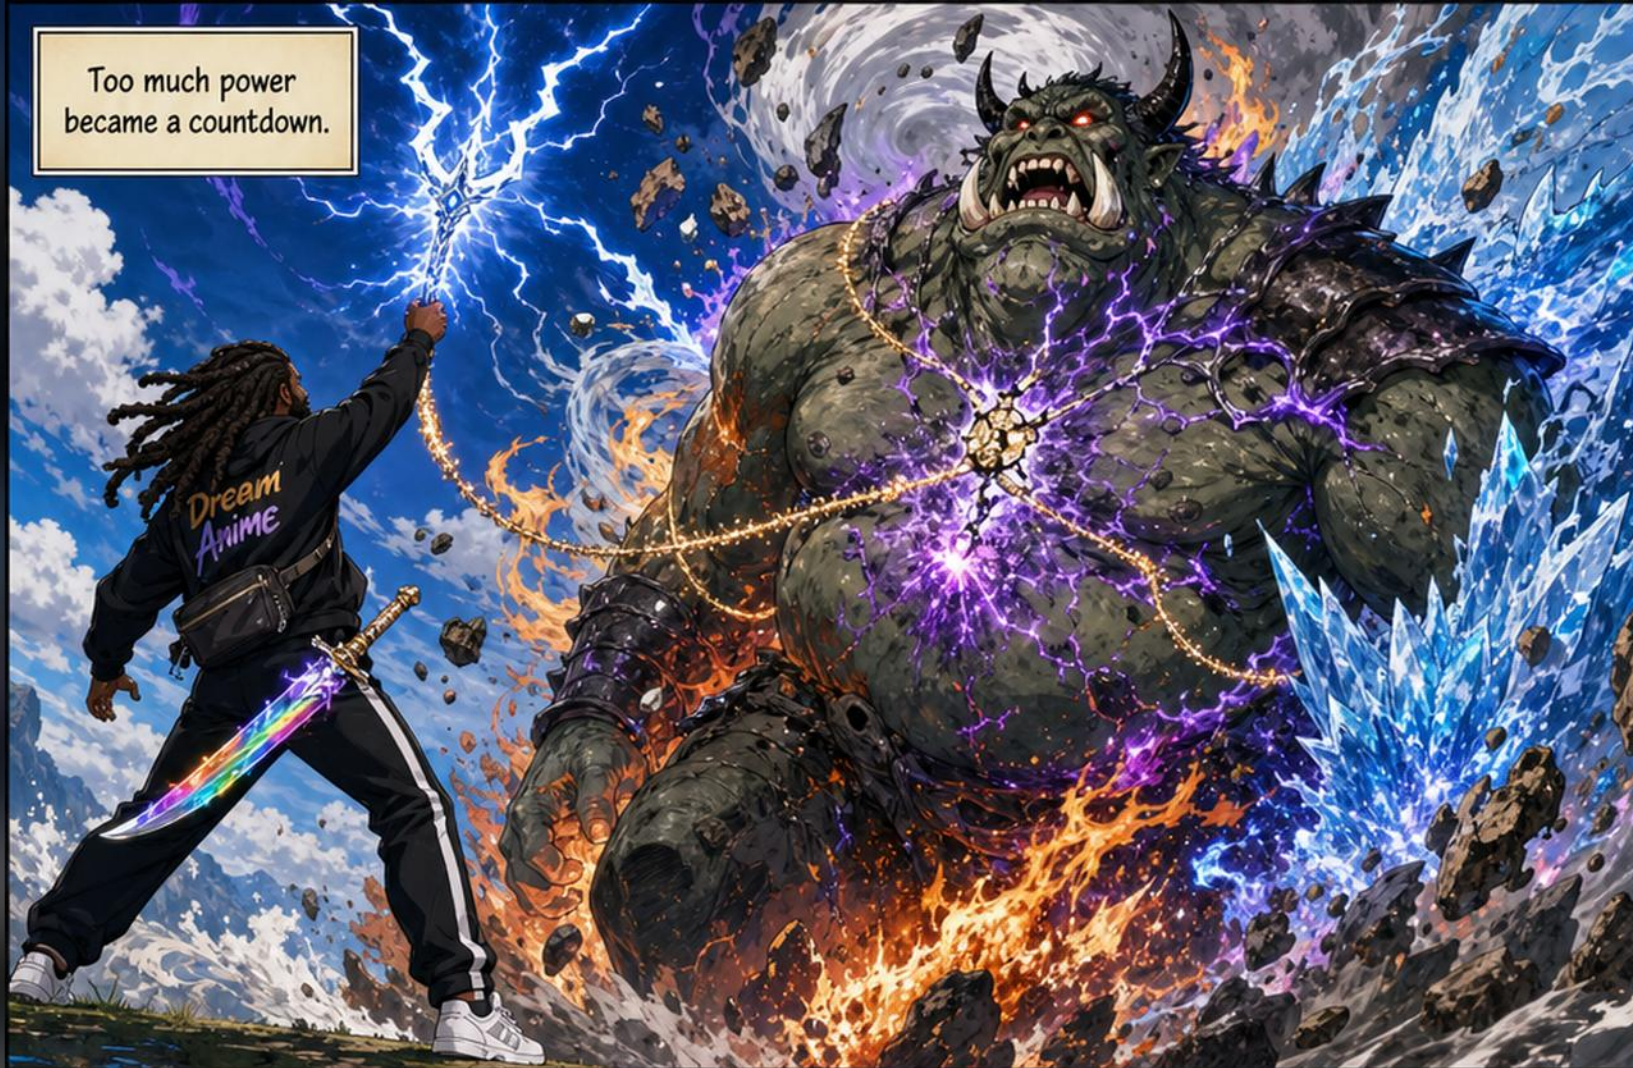

Power poured faster
than hunger.

Too much power
became a countdown.

I launched the
ogre into the sky.

Porta opened beyond
the clouds.

The explosion belonged somewhere empty.

Then I gave the staff away.

The staff could not promise what I wanted.

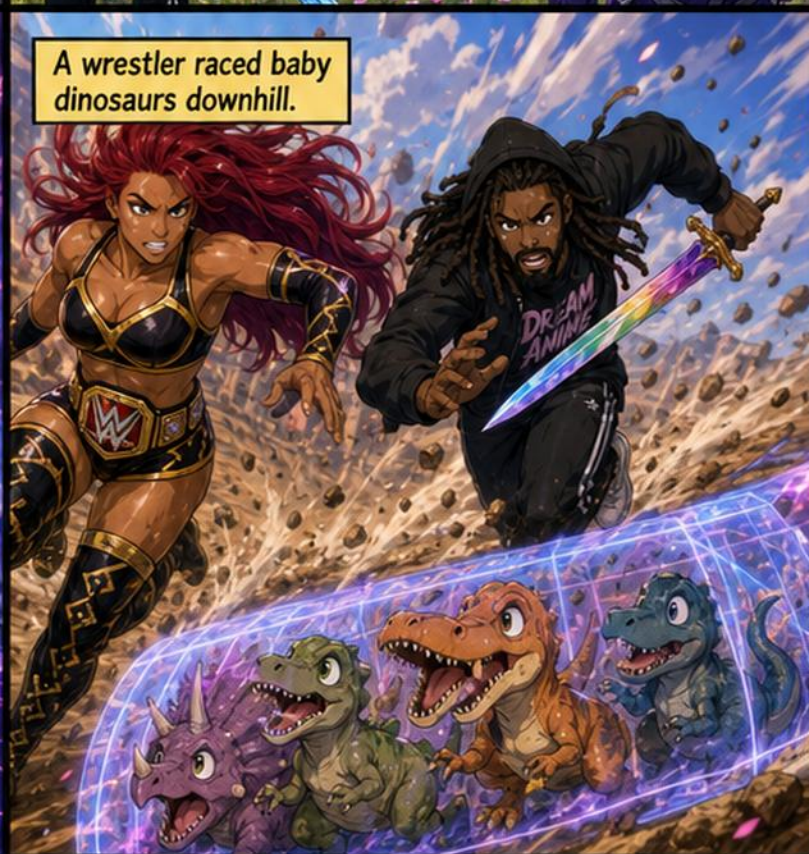

The dream shifted anyway.

Black holes bloomed in an anime battle world.

A wrestler raced baby dinosaurs downhill.

Before I could save them, the troll world returned.

At 4:30 AM, the alarm pulled me out.

