RETRO REALM

Sleep paralysis opened the lucid gate.

I arrived alone
in Mall World.

Endless stores stretched in every direction.

I wanted only one thing:
a workshop.

An elven sorceress found me first.

She followed too closely.

Help me find the workshop, or stop following.

Her answer was magic.

A FLOCK OF EAGLES FILLED THE MALL SKY.

SHE FUSED THEM INTO A JET.

HOP IN.
I KNOW THE PLACE.

MALL WORLD FELL AWAY BENEATH US.

The workshop was exactly what I needed.

Then I saw the truth.

The sorceress was a robot.

I started improving her design.

Talons became tools.

I added
elemental cores.

Fire, ice, lightning, wind, earth, and water woke inside her chest.

Her talon grapple became an elemental weapon.

The power called something hungry.

The wall shattered.

An energy vampire
ogre had arrived.

He wanted
every element.

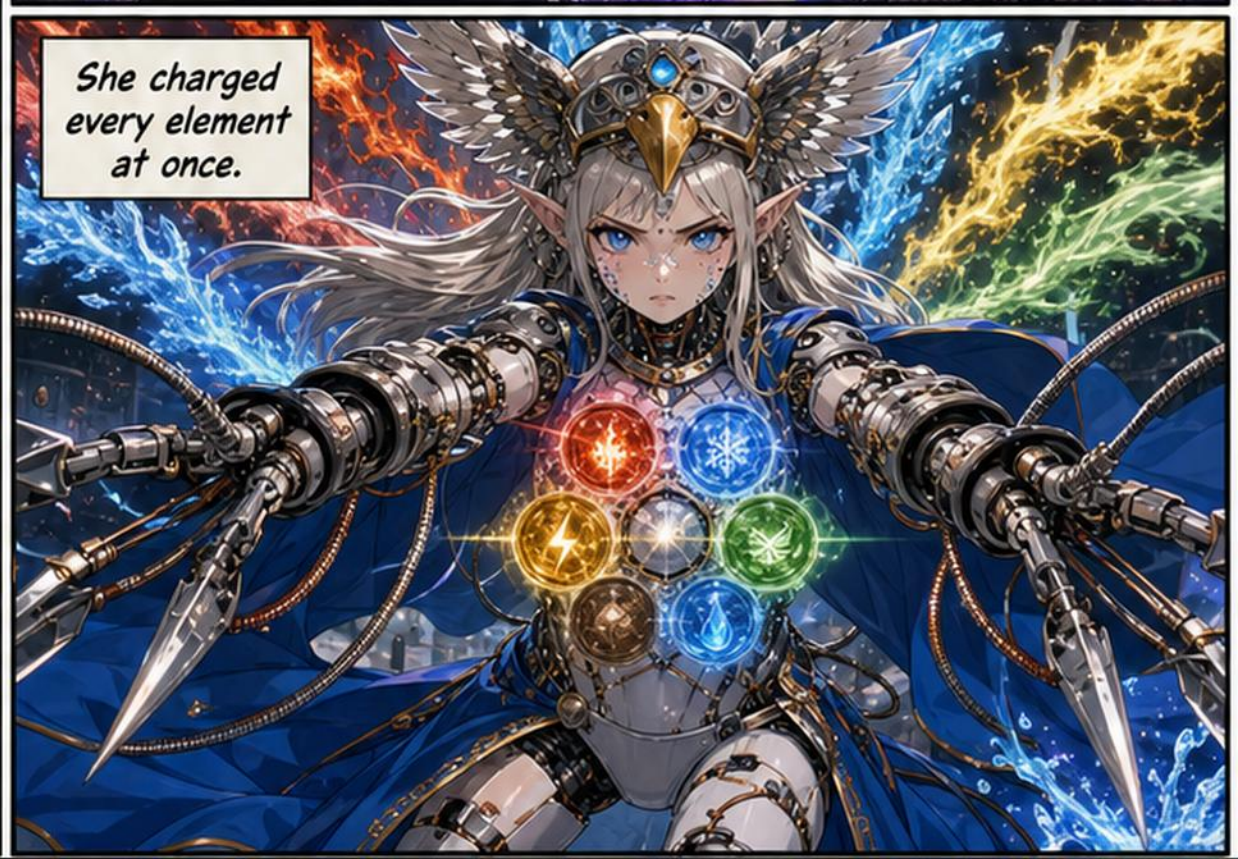

With that power,
reality bows.

I raised Lucid Light.

She charged
every element
at once.

I dropped the shield.

The charged talon struck.

Porta opened beneath him.

The explosion bloomed far away. Then I went back to tinkering.
