HOLO HANDS IN SPIDER JUNGLE

Sleep paralysis
opened the door.

I woke alone
in a jungle.

My hands
were gone.

The stumps
answered focus.

Green holo light
took shape.

I imagined shears.

The jungle opened.

A clearing waited
beyond the vines.

Then the hunter moved.

Shears became a blade.

I cut through the ambush.

One spider became many.

Every path
closed.

I needed more than a blade.

The machete became a soundwave blaster.

The jungle shook.

The soundwave
cleared the swarm.

But the sky broke open.

The queen fell
beside me.

My blast met
her screech.

The blaster failed.

Her mandibles opened.

I changed again.

Hooks held the nightmare apart.

I pulled until
the dream
gave way.

Hooks
became rockets.

The world was alive beneath me.
